The second was a court-martial, before which he was arraigned for being engaged in an affray, and for making false statements. Both courts were organized with a special view to entire impartiality, and were composed of officers, none of whom were stationed at West Point, and most of whom were not graduates of the academy. On his trial before the general court-martial of which Major-General Howard, Chief of the Freedmen's Bureau, was president, the Assistant Professor of Law and Ethics at the Military Academy, by request, acted The personal property of the Girard estate Gunny 3 vd 27 60 as his counsel, and with such good faith and ability that he was acquitted on the first charge and the war Department remitted the sentence on the second. These facts demonstrate that even-handed justice has been accorded him by the authorities of the institution, as well as by the War Department. But it would seem that his want of veracity may yet prove the ruin of him. He was recently reported in the usual manner for delinquency on drill .-He made a written explanation of the alleged offence, and this explanation is represented to contain undoubted evidence of what appears to be a chronic weakness of this colored youth-falsification of facts. Upon this charge he is to be again arraigned before a new court-martial, which will soon be appointed for the purpose of trying him. Before the third and impending tribunal the case will rest altogether on its recommendation of Mr. Hoge, member of her husband into buying her.

The subject of this notice professed religion early in life, and gave unmistakable evidence of having retained it in possession until he passed from his labors on earth to his reward in Heaven. from his labors on earth to his reward in Heaven. He was a useful and consistent member of the Front Street M. E. Church, in which he had acted, for some time, in the official capacity of Steward with fidelity. Enduring his protracted sufferings with christian patience and resignation, he became refined as gold is refined in passing through the furnace, and was thus fitted for the "society of angela" and of the "spirits of just men made perfect." He had labored and prayed for this during his life; he looked and longed for it as he approached his death: and he longed for it as he approached his death; and he is now doubtlessly enjoying that delightful companionship in "the Saints Everlasting Best."

The Body and its Needs,

Considering the extreme sensitiveness of the human body, and, that it is unprotected except by artificial covering, from the action of cold, it is not strange that at this season it is liable to many disorders. The skin exercises a powerful influence over the stomach and bowels, and when its functions are interrupted by sudden chills that seal the pores and prevent evaporation from the surface, internal congestion is apt to ensue. The digestive organs never perform office properly when this is the case, and the waste matter of the system, which should be frequent cause. The digestive organs being discharged in part through the perspiratory glands, having no other outlet than the bowels the bowels, the kidneys, and the nerves, and the and the kidneys, constipation and a variety of whole secretive and excretive machinery being renal diseases are more or less prevalent.
